The main findings of this report in one place, each explained on its own page

This report reads the 10th house and your 10th lord, the planets tied to work, the Vimshottari dasha, and the D10 chart through its planets. Each finding comes from a named tradition, and the periods and factors are astrological indications, not certainties. Classical and modern readings are kept separate where the tradition differs.

Periods your dasha traditionally associates with work, October 2026 to October 2036

Career period. Work is indicated here too, but less directly than in a strong career period. Only one of the two ruling planets is tied to work, or the sub-period ruler is a supporting planet rather than a primary one.

Strong career period. Both planets ruling this stretch are tied to work in your chart, and the sub-period ruler is a primary planet: your 10th lord or a planet in the 10th. Of the periods this report reads, these are the ones classical practice points to most directly.

Venus PRIMARY Lord of the 10th house · Aspects the 10th house

In your chart, the Venus period is traditionally associated with the arts, comfort, cooperation and refinement in work matters. It is read as a time when ease, taste and harmony can colour activity.

It rules your 3rd house, so its period also touches your own effort and courage, communication, short journeys and those who help you.

It rules your 10th house, the house of work itself, so its period touches profession, standing and authority directly.

How to read these notes

WELL PLACED This planet sits in a strong position in your chart: exalted, in its own sign, or in an angle or trine. Tradition expects its period to deliver what it stands for more readily.

MIXED PLACEMENT This planet has one strong point and one weak point in your chart. Tradition weighs them together, so its period is neither simply easy nor simply hard.

IN HARMONY WITH THE MAIN-PERIOD PLANET The two planets ruling this period sit well with each other, so tradition reads the main period and the sub-period as working together.

Periods That Ask for Patience

Sub-periods of the planets tradition reads as demanding, listed apart from the career windows

Some sub-periods in these ten years are ruled by planets classical texts read as demanding, and they are listed separately from the career windows. They describe the chart, not what will happen, and a demanding period is not a bad one to work in.

April 2030 to March 2031

ASKS FOR PATIENCE

Ketu period, Jupiter sub-period

Jupiter

In your chart, the Jupiter period is traditionally associated with guidance, teaching and growth in work matters. It is read as a time when knowledge and wider understanding can be emphasised. It rules your 5th house, so its period also touches learning, intelligence and counsel, and positions of trust.

It rules your 8th house, so its period also touches change and the unforeseen, what is hidden, and other people's resources.

MIXED PLACEMENT Jupiter: Exalted · In the 12th house

IN HARMONY WITH THE MAIN-PERIOD PLANET Jupiter, 9th from Ketu

Why these planets

Jupiter Lord of the 8th house

The lord of the 8th house, linked with change and the unforeseen in your chart, is classically read as demanding when its period holds no career role. It is an astrological indication, not an outcome.

Your 10th House

The kind of work classical texts associate with your chart, and whether it leans to a job or to business

Where your 10th lord sits

Your 10th lord, Venus, is in your 4th house. Parashara reads this placement as work tied to home, land and property, and associates it with comfort and holdings.

Planets in your 10th house

Saturn

Phaladeepika associates Saturn in the 10th house with responsibility and office, work connected with land, courage and a name.

Rahu

Phaladeepika associates Rahu in the 10th house with fame, fearlessness and involvement in the affairs of others.

Kind of work

Your 10th lord, Venus, falls in a Navamsa sign ruled by Jupiter. Phaladeepika reads the kind of work from that planet.

Teaching, law and finance

Phaladeepika associates this planet with teaching and learned guidance, law, ethics and advisory roles, institutions and patronage, and finance and lending. Its own lists belong to their time; modern readers take them as a lean towards counsel, stewardship and organised resources.

Job or business

- × The 10th lord in the 6th house, of service
- × The 10th lord in the 7th house, of business
- ✓ The 7th lord in the 10th house

Leans to business

In your chart, the 10th lord in the 7th, or the 7th lord in the 10th, is read by modern astrologers as a lean towards independent work, trade or partnership. It is a lean, not a limit on choice.

Strengths and Challenges

Mixed

Support and strain are close in balance: level, or with strain ahead by one factor. This is read as a mixed set of indications, not a verdict on your work life.

Support

None of the factors this report checks.

Strain

A malefic with the 10th lord Moon, Mars, Ketu

A malefic in the same sign as your 10th lord is read as the opposite of benefic support in BPHS 21.4. In this tradition, it is a strain indicator for the 10th house.

Your D10 Chart

Where your career planets fall in the Dashamsha, the divisional chart classical texts read for work

PLANET	D10 SIGN	STANDING
Venus 10th lord	Aries	No special standing In your D10, this planet is neither exalted, in its own sign, nor debilitated. Classical practice reads that as neutral standing in the chart of work.
Mars	Scorpio	Own sign In your D10, this planet is in its own sign, read as a comfortable and well-supported placement there. Classical practice treats this as a strength in the chart of work.
Mercury	Gemini	Own sign In your D10, this planet is in its own sign, read as a comfortable and well-supported placement there. Classical practice treats this as a strength in the chart of work.
Moon	Scorpio	Debilitated In your D10, this planet is debilitated, which classical practice reads as a placement that works less easily there. It is an astrological challenge indicator, not an outcome.
Rahu	Aries	No special standing In your D10, this planet is neither exalted, in its own sign, nor debilitated. Classical practice reads that as neutral standing in the chart of work.
Saturn	Libra	Exalted In your D10, this planet is exalted, which classical practice reads as a strong placement in the chart of work. It is one of the traditional strength markers.

The Other Planets in These Periods

Ketu

In your chart, the Ketu period is traditionally associated with detachment, specialisation and inward focus in work matters. It is read as a time when narrow or specialised themes can come to the fore.

Sun

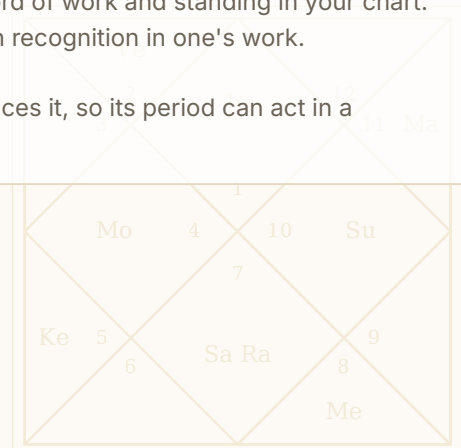

In your chart, the Sun period is traditionally associated with authority, recognition and visible responsibility in work matters. It is read as a time when leadership themes can come to the fore.

Why These Periods

The planets whose periods classical texts connect with work in your chart

PLANET	WEIGHT	WHY IT COUNTS
Mars	SUPPORTING	Aspects the 10th house A planet aspecting the 10th influences it, so its period can act in a supporting way.
Mercury	SUPPORTING	Lord of the 11th house, of gains The lord of the 11th is linked to gains and fulfilment of aims, and modern astrologers read its periods as supporting work matters through visibility and recognition. In this report it is a secondary factor, not a primary one.
Moon	SUPPORTING	Aspects the 10th house A planet aspecting the 10th influences it, so its period can act in a supporting way.
Rahu	PRIMARY	In the 10th house A planet in the 10th house takes on the matters of that house, and its period can bring them forward.
Saturn	PRIMARY	In the 10th house A planet in the 10th house takes on the matters of that house, and its period can bring them forward. Lord of the 6th house, of service The lord of the 6th is linked to service and daily work, and modern astrologers read its periods for employment. Classical texts read its periods differently, so here it supports a period rather than making it strong.
Venus	PRIMARY	Lord of the 10th house The lord of the 10th house is the lord of work and standing in your chart. BPHS 48 associates its period with recognition in one's work. Aspects the 10th house A planet aspecting the 10th influences it, so its period can act in a supporting way.

About This Report

An astrological career timing analysis based on traditional Vedic techniques. Below: how your chart was calculated, and the conventions this report follows.

How your chart is calculated

Your chart is calculated in sidereal zodiac positions using Lahiri ayanamsa and the Swiss Ephemeris. It uses Whole Sign houses from the Lagna, and Vimshottari periods are dated from the Moon's position at birth. Because birth time matters closely, even a few minutes can shift the dates by weeks, so this report gives months.

How career periods are chosen

The 10th lord, whose period BPHS associates with recognition in work, and any planet in the 10th house lead. Modern astrologers add the 6th and 11th lords and planets aspecting the 10th, which this report counts as supporting. A period is strongly indicated when a leading planet rules its sub-period and another career planet rules its main period, and indicated when one career planet rules either. Sub-periods of the 8th or 12th lord that hold no career role are listed as demanding. The report reads ten years from the purchase date, from the 18th birthday.

How each period is judged

Each period's planets are judged the way Parashara judges a period. A planet exalted, in its own sign, or in an angle or a trine is read as well placed; one debilitated, or in the 6th, 8th or 12th house, as under strain. The sub-period planet is also read from the main-period planet: an angle, a trine or the 11th from it is harmonious, and the 6th, 8th or 12th is not. This report does not weigh a friend's or an enemy's sign or combustion, and does not judge where Rahu and Ketu sit. A period's label says who rules it; the placement says how those planets stand.

How the chart factors are chosen

The kind of work is read from the ruler of the Navamsa sign your 10th lord occupies, as Phaladeepika 5.1 gives it. Phaladeepika counts the 10th lord from the Lagna, the Moon or the Sun, whichever is strongest; this report counts it from the Lagna only, because it does not measure strength. Strengths and challenges follow BPHS chapter 21, benefics and malefics BPHS 3.11, and the job-or-business links modern practice.

How the D10 chart is read

The D10 is divided as BPHS 6.13 to 6.14 sets it out, with 3 degree parts, odd signs from themselves and even signs from their 9th sign. Only the planets' D10 signs are read, never the D10's own rising sign, because that can change every few minutes of birth time.

What this report is

This report is an astrological reading of your chart using traditional Vedic techniques. Its periods and factors are indications, not certainties or career advice, and what happens depends on skills, effort and circumstance.
