MARRIAGE PREDICTION REPORT

Your name

Vimshottari Dasha · Vedic Marriage Timing

A marriage period now

Running now: October 2026 to April 2028

A period that your dasha traditionally associates with marriage was already running on the day this report was bought. Classical texts treat such periods as times when marriage matters come to the fore. What happens in any period depends on far more than a chart.

Your Marriage Profile

The main findings of this report in one place, each explained on its own page

This report reads the part of your birth chart that Vedic astrology connects with marriage: the 7th house, its ruling planet, Venus, and the Vimshottari dasha, the sequence of planetary periods that runs through a life. It is an astrological marriage timing analysis based on traditional Vedic techniques, and each finding is what a named tradition associates with your chart. The periods and factors it shows are astrological indications, not certainties about events.

Jupiter period, Mercury sub-period

Jupiter PRIMARY Jupiter, significator of the husband

Mercury PRIMARY Lord of the 7th house

Both planets ruling this stretch are tied to marriage in your chart, and the one ruling the sub-period is among the most important of them. Of the periods this report reads, these are the ones classical practice points to most directly.

April 2028 to March 2029

INDICATED

Jupiter period, Ketu sub-period

Jupiter PRIMARY Jupiter, significator of the husband

Marriage is signified in this stretch, but less fully than in a strongly indicated period: either only one of its two ruling planets is tied to marriage in your chart, or the tie is a supporting one.

March 2029 to November 2031

STRONGLY INDICATED

Jupiter period, Venus sub-period

Jupiter PRIMARY Jupiter, significator of the husband

Venus PRIMARY Venus, significator of marriage

Both planets ruling this stretch are tied to marriage in your chart, and the one ruling the sub-period is among the most important of them. Of the periods this report reads, these are the ones classical practice points to most directly.

Timing Tendency and Love-Marriage Indicators

Factors in your chart, each named, and what tradition associates with them

Timing tendency

Some delay factors

Two of the factors tradition associates with a later marriage appear in your chart. This is a common combination, found in about a third of charts, and the periods on the timeline matter more than this count.

Saturn on Venus Saturn

Saturn joins or aspects Venus, the significator of marriage, which several astrologers associate with marriage coming later and with a serious, considered approach to it.

Saturn on the Moon Saturn

Saturn joins or aspects the Moon, which some astrologers associate with a cautious emotional pace and with marriage coming later.

Love-marriage indicators

No indicators found

None of the four indicators this report checks, the ones modern astrologers associate with a love marriage, appear in your chart. That does not settle whether a marriage would be a love or an arranged one: it only means these particular indicators are absent, and the sources read give no settled test for an arranged marriage.

Your Partner in the Chart

What tradition reads about a spouse from the 7th house, its lord and its planets

The 7th sign: Gemini

With Gemini on your 7th house, tradition reads a partner with the qualities of a Mercury-ruled air sign: curious, sociable and quick with words. The pairing is associated with a relationship that thrives on conversation.

The 7th lord: Mercury

Mercury rules your 7th house. Tradition reads this as colouring a partner with intelligence, humour and a gift for communication.

Planets in the 7th house

No planet sits in your 7th house, which is common. Tradition then reads the partner from the sign on the house and from its ruling planet, described above.

Strengths and Challenges

What classical texts treat as support for the 7th house, and what they treat as strain

Mixed. Your chart shows both supporting and straining factors for the 7th house, which is the most common reading: about half of all charts fall here. Classical texts weigh such factors together with the whole chart rather than one at a time.

Support

None of the factors this report checks.

Strain

A malefic with or aspecting the 7th lord Sun, Rahu

A natural malefic joins or aspects the ruler of your 7th house. Classical texts treat this as an affliction of the 7th lord.

Venus aspected by a malefic Saturn

A natural malefic aspects Venus. Phaladeepika treats this as an affliction of Venus, the significator of marriage.

Venus between malefics

Venus sits between two malefics. Phaladeepika treats Venus hemmed in this way as afflicted.

Mangal Dosha

Classified from the Lagna under the RashiDaily convention. The Moon and Venus are shown as additional traditional checks and do not change the result.

Mangal Dosha NOT PRESENT

Reference	Mars in house	Result
Lagna primary	11	Not detected
Moon	6	Not detected
Venus	2	Detected

Under the convention used by this report, Mars is not in the 1st, 2nd, 4th, 7th, 8th or 12th house from your Lagna, so Mangal Dosha is not identified in your chart. The Moon and Venus checks are shown for reference and do not change this result.

The Planets in These Periods

What each planet ruling a period traditionally brings to relationships

Jupiter

Jupiter periods are traditionally associated with wisdom, growth, children and good counsel. In relationships they are read as times of support, and in a woman's chart Jupiter is also read as the significator of the husband.

Mercury

Mercury periods are traditionally associated with speech, learning and exchange. In relationships they are read as times when communication and friendship come to the fore.

Ketu

Ketu periods are traditionally associated with detachment, reflection and letting go. In relationships they are read as inward-looking times, when worldly matters can feel less pressing.

Venus

Venus periods are traditionally associated with love, harmony, comfort and partnership. They are the periods tradition connects most readily with marriage in every chart.

Sun

Sun periods are traditionally associated with identity, authority and the father's side of the family. In relationships they are read as times when independence and recognition come to the fore.

Moon

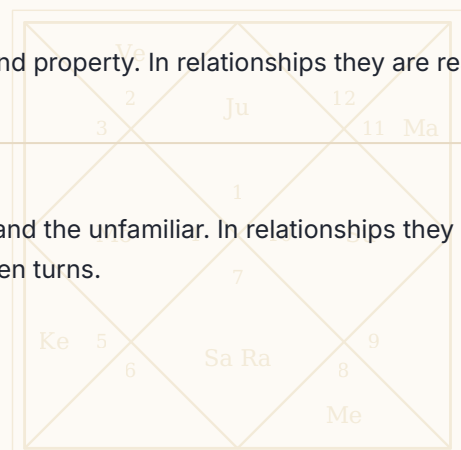

Moon periods are traditionally associated with the mind, the emotions, home and the mother. In relationships they are read as times when emotional needs and family ties come to the fore.

Mars

Mars periods are traditionally associated with energy, initiative and property. In relationships they are read as times of drive and directness, when patience can be tested.

Rahu

Rahu periods are traditionally associated with ambition, change and the unfamiliar. In relationships they are read as times that can bring unconventional choices or sudden turns.

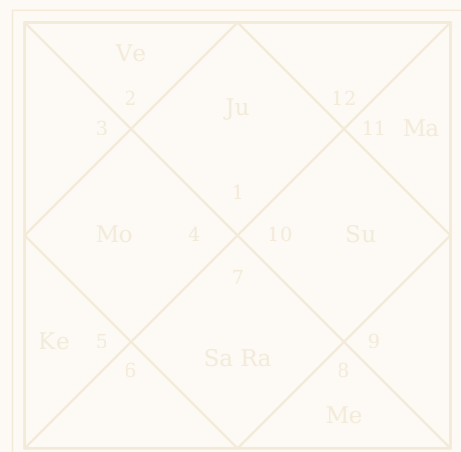

Why These Periods

The planets whose periods classical texts connect with marriage in your chart

PLANET	WEIGHT	WHY IT COUNTS
Jupiter	PRIMARY	Jupiter, significator of the husband In a woman's chart, many astrologers read Jupiter as the significator of the husband, alongside Venus. This is modern practice rather than a rule found in the classical chapters read for this report, and the report follows it for charts given as female.
Mercury	PRIMARY	Lord of the 7th house The planet that rules your 7th house, the house of marriage. Phaladeepika names the period of the 7th lord among the first that bring marriage matters forward.
Moon	SUPPORTING	The Moon The Moon, which Phaladeepika pairs with Venus when timing marriage. This report gives it a supporting weight, because it does not measure which of the two is the stronger.
Sun	SUPPORTING	Rules the sign the 7th lord occupies The planet ruling the sign your 7th lord occupies. Phaladeepika directs attention to it when timing marriage; this report gives it a supporting weight.
Venus	PRIMARY	Venus, significator of marriage Venus is the natural significator of marriage and of the spouse in every chart; Brihat Parashara Hora Shastra reads the spouse from the 7th counted from Venus. Its periods are read for marriage whatever houses it rules.

About This Report

An astrological marriage timing analysis based on traditional Vedic techniques. Below: how your chart was calculated, and the conventions this report follows.

How your chart is calculated

Your chart is calculated with the Swiss Ephemeris, using the Lahiri ayanamsa, the one most widely used in India. Its planet positions have been checked against NASA's JPL Horizons and agree to within one arcsecond. Each house is one whole sign, counted from your Lagna (rising sign), and the periods of your life follow the Vimshottari dasha. The dates of the periods depend on your birth time: a time a few minutes out can move them by several weeks.

How marriage periods are chosen

Some planets are tied to marriage in your chart. The ruler of your 7th house, any planet in it, and Venus count most, and so does Jupiter in a woman's chart. Planets aspecting the 7th house, the ruler of the sign where your 7th house ruler sits, and the Moon count as support. Every dasha period has a main planet and a sub-period planet. A period is Strongly indicated when its sub-period planet counts most and its main planet also counts. A period is Indicated when its main or sub-period planet counts most, but the conditions for a Strong indication are not met. Periods with the same indication that follow one another form one window. Only the ten years after purchase are read, and never before age 18.

How the chart factors are chosen

The strengths and challenges come from two classical texts, Brihat Parashara Hora Shastra and Phaladeepika. The delay factors are the ones that at least three of the modern sources read for this report agree on. Which planets count as benefic (gentle) or malefic (harsh) follows Brihat Parashara Hora Shastra, and a planet's aspect falls on a whole sign rather than an exact degree.

Love-marriage indicators

Love-marriage indicators come from modern astrological practice. None of the sources read for this report finds them in the classical texts, so they are reported as modern readings.

What this report is

The periods and factors in this report are astrological indications drawn from traditional Vedic techniques, not certainties about events. The whole chart, and the judgement of a qualified astrologer, matter more than any single factor or period described here.
